

ADHD Author opts for joint book, social media launch

For Immediate Release

HAMILTON, CANADA -- Citing a need to simultaneously launch both his ADHD memoir self-help book and the related social media campaign, Canadian author W. Ian Walker has pushed back the release date of his anticipated new book "Stirring My Soul to Sing, Overcoming ADHD Through Song."

"I decided it was important to coordinate the launch of the book with my series of presentations on YouTube and other social media," says Walker. "I have chosen to postpone publication by three or four months as a result."

The book is Walker's first-person account of his successful lifelong struggle with ADHD (Acquired Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder). In the book, the arts management executive and musician explains how the practical application of music when combined with personal religious faith, helped him to overcome the disorder.

The book and social media campaigns have been tentatively rescheduled for a January 2018 launch.

###

If you wish to be notified of developments related to the book and social media launch, please send your email address to:

wiw@emliancommunications.org

(#60)